

The Tie That Binds

Blessings and peace to everyone! I hope that this find everybody in good spirits and good health!

I just wanted to touch base and share that over the past few weeks, the pastors of St. James Presbyterian, James Island Presbyterian and Harbor View Presbyterian (that's us!) have been meeting on a weekly basis to discuss the current racial issues in our society. As such, we have begun to formulate/discern a plan that we believe will help move us all toward a spiritually and relationally great direction. So far, we have all planned to center thoughts and ideas around a common scriptural and spiritual theme: That theme is "The Tie That Binds."

Some of the activities and opportunities that we are looking forward to sharing in together include a prayer vigil, a support drive (driving as a group in individual vehicles) around James Island, a virtual concert, joint worship services, social get togethers and of course continuing to participate in the already established ministries that we do together such as the weekly Lenten services in the spring.

Of course, this list is not exhaustive and much of what is here will be subject to changes that may become part of our lives due to COVID-19, governmental recommendations and of course safety precautions that should be observed to help maintain a healthy and safe community.

Prayer and thoughts are always so very welcomed in all circumstances. This has never been more true than in this time of such great change in our lives. Working toward a just and loving society for everyone is no easy task. We look forward to each great step that God calls us to take together and believe that the path that He sets us on will be the path that will take us to the place that we truly need to be!

In Christ,
Rusty

A Message of Thanks

Thank you for your continued support of Harbor View's ministry during this difficult and unusual time. We are especially appreciative of those who have made a point of contributing financially during the past several weeks. Harbor View is your Church, which is able to provide worship and to serve others only with your continued support.

We are excited to begin worship services this Sunday in our sanctuary. While things will be a little different, we will still have the opportunity to worship together whether it's in the sanctuary or watching from home.

If you plan on attending this service, the offering plates will be located in the Narthex. If you aren't ready to attend the services in person, they will be live on facebook just like they have been for the past several weeks. You can then either continue to mail your gifts directly to the Church or if you prefer to give online, please visit the church website at www.harborviewpc.org. Then click on the GIVING tab at the top of the homepage.

Again, thank you for supporting the ongoing ministries of Harbor View with your financial gifts which can be done either in person, online, by USPS or dropping them by the Church!
