Dear Partners in Christ,

You have already received much correspondence about the coronavirus: steps to protect yourself and your family, actions to help “flatten the curve” of contagion across our communities, what we need to purchase as we self-quarantine. Helpful information as we continue to learn through experiencing this global challenge.

We know the social distancing that has been put in place in almost every community across our denomination has had a dramatic impact on you. Whether a church, a mid-council, a camp and conference center, or a university, the way your organization operates and your everyday life looks nothing like it did just four weeks ago.

My message to you is simple: We are here. The financial impact will undoubtedly differ among you. We are here and available to discuss what challenges you are facing and to discuss what options may be possible regarding your loan. Just as your organization has taken responsible actions for the health of your staff, congregations, and students, we have altered our schedules but continue to be fully available by phone or e-mail.

This is a challenging time for all of us, one of the many times I am grateful for being part of the connectional church we are. Know that our prayers are with you as we all discover how to continue our mission in these uncertain times.

Sincerely,
