Prayers of Thanksgiving for the Life and Ministry of...

The Reverend Charlsie Ramsey 6/14/34 - 2/3/22
Charlsie, who faithfully served as the Presbytery of Scioto Valley Moderator in 2017, died unexpectedly last week. Charlsie began her ministry career in 1998 when she was ordained in New Covenant Presbytery in Texas. Following her retirement, she moved to Ohio to serve the Hanover Presbyterian Church. Charlsie served other congregations in Scioto Valley as pulpit supply, finishing a covenant with Iberia the end of 2021. Throughout her ministries in congregations in Scioto Valley, Charlsie was an active participant in the life, activities, and ministries of the presbytery. She was a popular preacher throughout the presbytery, and no church was too small for her to come to preach and visit. Charlsie also served as the Moderator of Presbyterian Women in Scioto Valley. She will be missed by people throughout the Presbytery.

Presbytery Meetings on Sundays...

2022 Presbytery Meeting Dates: Tuesday, February 15, Sunday, May 15, Tuesday, September 20, Sunday, November 20, meeting time 3:30 p.m.

As those of you who attended the November Presbytery meeting know, at the recommendation of the PSV Coordinating Team, the Presbytery voted to hold meetings twice this year on Sunday afternoons. The Coordinating Team believes that Sunday meetings could increase the diversity of elder commissioners at Presbytery meetings, as well as their number. The proposal brought in November is an experiment. We welcome your ideas on other approaches to increasing attendance and diversity at Presbytery meetings. We look forward to this conversation!

TO: Clerks of Session and Pastors

FROM: Rev. Dr. Mark E. Parsons II, Chair, Commission for Congregational Life

Greetings from the Presbytery of Scioto Valley's Commission for Congregational Life (CCL)! I wanted to reach out as the new chairperson of CCL to share a bit about what the CCL is and how we might support your congregation and its ministries. While our work is primarily conducted in coordination with Clerks of Session, we want to keep pastors in the loop. Pastors have their own liaisons on the Commission for Church Professionals.

As you may know, the CCL is charged with supporting the ministries of our 87 congregations and their 13,000+ members. The primary way most congregations encounter CCL is when they are going through a pastoral transition. While helping congregations, sessions, and Pastor Nominating Committees work through the pastoral search process is a huge part of our work, we also are here to support your congregation in its day-to-day ministries. Film critic selects his top 10 films for 2021... Dr. Edward McNulty's annual list is rich with films imbued in moral and spiritual content | Special to Presbyterian News Service

The COVID-19 pandemic continued to disrupt or postpone the releases of some films during 2021. With theaters closed during part of the year, some new releases were viewed on various platforms via streaming video. Although this has meant that I have not been able to catch all the new films, I have seen enough to compile a long enough list of candidates that still make paring down the list to 10 a pleasantly painful process. As in the past, the films below do more than just entertain us. They explore the life worth living, celebrate the human spirit, challenge accepted norms, open our eyes to new beauty and truths, and maybe warn us of or show us “the wages of sin.” Several will be on the lists of the secular critics, but others will be less familiar. Although aesthetics and popularity are considered, the moral/spiritual content of the film is the main consideration. The Bible references are from my original reviews, intended to help the reader make a connection between insights of the filmmaker and the ancient wisdom of the Scripture writers. To explore a film further, click on the title, and the embedded link will take you to the full review.
